ENV-FR-STAKE · mobile series conditions

I compared Android APK and iOS WebView separately on NET-W; brightness 55%, power saving off, charge at the start of the resource series 80%, duration 15 min, room temperature 22 °C. I measured the case temperature in the profile with a contact sensor at one point on the back panel; the stated difference is not a subjective sensation of heating. iOS WebView — operator container, and Safari — separate browser route.

I performed five attempts of each action on each platform. In the rows with 4/5 the fifth attempt ended in a timeout of 10.000 s; it is not included in the average of successful launches. - Can you play for free? Demo mode versus playing for real money
- If you are a beginner, starting with minimum bets will help you effectively control the state of your gaming bank. Start gradually and understand the mechanics of the games before increasing your bet size.
- These unique exclusive games are developed by our own Stake Originals team. They are executed in our signature dark style with vibrant color accents that make them stand out from the crowd.
- In addition to the striking visual design, all Stake Originals games support provably fair technology. The concept of provably fair was created for those users who want to have full control over the process. Instead of relying solely on the RNG (random number generator), you can independently verify the results of each game round.
- Games from the "Stake Only" line are created by various providers based on Stake Engine technology. They are presented exclusively on our platform and offer many exciting ways to achieve a win.
- We have prepared useful guides – from the basics of playing slots to explaining how the RNG works and the house edge, to help you play more consciously and effectively.
- On Stake.com you can easily join a game at a lively table in a virtual casino with live dealers.
- Casino games should bring enjoyment and results, which is why fast games are so popular! Our fast games are highly dynamic, combine classic and innovative mechanics, and offer huge multipliers.
- Card games consistently remain at the top of preferences, and poker on Stake is represented by such hits as Stake Poker from Stake Originals and Poker Live from Evolution.
- The vast majority of Stake casino games can be played for free by launching their demo versions. To do this, simply toggle the switch on the screen from "Real Money Play" mode to "Demo Play" mode. This will allow you to explore all the features that the games offer for free.
- Blackjack is the foundation of the Stake gaming lobby. The rules of the game are simple and do not require long study, however, balanced decisions and a strategic approach can significantly influence the result in the long term.
- Stake has combined all versions of blackjack into a single lobby with convenient navigation. Access to all games in one place allows you to easily compare formats and find the option that best suits your style.
- In the long term, this difference is crucial: A low house edge provides more opportunities for effective balance management across many deals.
- The Live blackjack format adds a human factor to the process. A real dealer runs the game at the table, and you watch each deal in real time. This atmosphere is as close as possible to the environment of a classic gaming hall and is ideal for users who prefer a measured pace and social interaction.
- Stake offers a wide selection of blackjack formats from the industry's leading providers. In one section you will find versions such as Infinite Blackjack, Lightning Blackjack, Speed Blackjack, Free Bet Blackjack and Power Blackjack.

- Each modification brings its own adjustments to the dynamics of the game. For example, Speed Blackjack significantly reduces the waiting time between deals, while Infinite Blackjack allows an unlimited number of users to participate in the same round.
- Live dealer blackjack streams are broadcast from professional studios in real time. This creates an immersive effect and a high level of trust: you do not depend on animation, since the entire card handling process takes place directly in front of the camera.
- In Infinite Blackjack, tables are always open to any number of participants, so rounds are never empty. Speed Blackjack is focused on quick decision-making: the dealer acts as promptly as possible, which minimizes pauses between deals.
- VIP tables offer higher limits and a more private setting. At the same time, games such as Lightning Blackjack from Evolution Gaming are supplemented with random multipliers that can significantly increase the potential payout.
- The main goal in blackjack is to beat the dealer without exceeding 21 points. The basic rules can be mastered in a matter of minutes, however, developing and honing an effective strategy will take much more time.
- Your task is to score more points than the dealer while staying within 21 points. Number cards correspond to their face value, while Jack, Queen and King are valued at 10 points.
- Breakdown of the main actions: hit, stand, double or split
- Double Doubling the bet With a strong starting hand to receive one additional card.
- Split Splitting a pair Allows you to turn a pair of identical cards into two separate hands.
- These decisions form the foundation of blackjack strategy. Over time, understanding when to split cards, double the bet or use insurance becomes intuitive. Overview of side bets: Perfect Pair, 21+3 and insurance
- open up additional opportunities in each round. They are not mandatory, but many players use them for variety. Here is how they work:
- Perfect Pairs A bet on the first two cards matching. Increased payouts for forming identical pairs.
- 21+3 Combines your cards and the dealer's card into poker combinations. Adds poker elements to the game.
- Insurance Protection against the risk of the dealer getting blackjack. Offered if the dealer's upcard is an ace.
- Although insurance adds variability, it is worth remembering that such bets are usually accompanied by a higher house edge.
- American and European blackjack are the two most common versions of the game. Despite their external similarity, differences in the rules significantly affect the level of risk and the choice of strategy.
- Dealer's hole card The dealer receives two cards (one face down) The dealer receives only one card (no hole card)
- Blackjack check Yes, immediately after the deal No, only after the players' turn
- Split options More flexible (re-splitting allowed) Limited (fewer re-splits)
- Surrender The player can surrender after splitting the first two cards No surrender option
- House edge Slightly higher (depends on the rules) Often slightly lower
- To sum up: American blackjack is considered safer for each individual hand. The European variant may be more profitable in the long term, but is associated with higher short-term risks.

- Different game formats offer different levels of immersion. Here is a brief comparison of the classic version and Live variants:
- Our platform combines Stake Original games with a provably fair system and Live blackjack with live dealers, offering players exceptional variety. This combination is rarely found on other sites and opens up far more opportunities for users to explore the game.
- , including card counting principles and tips for choosing optimal moves in various situations.
- also play an important role, making time on Stake as productive as possible. Free bets,
- and regular offers provide active players with additional value throughout their entire interaction with the platform.
- , including BTC, ETH and other assets that can be safely stored in Stake Vault.
- Our platform offers an extensive collection of blackjack games, catering to any type of player. On Stake.com we combine classic table games with modern formats, which makes the gameplay dynamic and understandable.
- Compared to other categories, blackjack stands out for its relatively low house edge, which maximizes the winning potential for all participants. Once you understand the rules and basic bet types, you will be able to master this game at a high level with ease.
- Read on to learn more about the blackjack gaming opportunities at Stake casino.
- You can freely switch between classic tables, Live blackjack and modern variations within a single section. The drop-down menu allows you to sort games by provider, novelty or popularity.
- Stake Original Blackjack focuses on transparency and full control. The game is built on a provably fair system, which allows you to verify the result of any round. This provides a level of trust that is not always available in standard online versions.
- Our version of blackjack features the lowest house edge in the industry – just 0,57%. Thus, the theoretical return to player (RTP) in blackjack from the Stake Originals series is 99,43%.
- Live blackjack is a streamed version of the classic game where a real dealer manages the table and players place bets through an interactive online interface. The rules in such games remain traditional, however the presence of chat and visual contact create an atmosphere as close as possible to a real casino floor.
- The main difference lies in the pace of the game and the user experience. Classic RNG-based blackjack is perfect for quick gaming sessions, while Live blackjack is chosen by players seeking maximum realism.
- Our Stake Smart recommendations include tools for effective management of gaming activity. You can set limits, track the history of your sessions and take breaks when necessary. These tools help maintain control over the situation in the long term, which is far more important than any short-term success.

- The output of the Random Number Generator (byteGenerator) function is a hexadecimal 32-byte hash. As explained under the cursor implementation, we use 4 bytes of data to generate a single game result. Each set of 4 bytes are used to generate floats between 0 and 1 (4 bytes are used instead of one to ensure a higher level of precision when generating the float.) It is with these generated floats that we derive the formal output of the provable fair algorithm before it is translated into game events.

- function generateFloats ({ serverSeed, clientSeed, nonce, cursor, count }) {
- Where the process of generating random outputs is universal for all our games, it's at this point in the game outcome generation where a unique procedure is implemented to determine the translation from floats to game events.
- The randomly float generated is multiplied by the possible remaining outcomes of the particular game being played. For example: In a game that uses a 52 card deck, this would simply be done by multiplying the float by 52. The result of this equation is then translated into a corresponding game event. For games where multiple game events are required, this process continues through each corresponding 4 bytes in the result chain that was generated using the described byteGenerator function.
- As an example, in video poker, there is at first 52 cards available in the complete deck, and therefore the first game event is translated by multiplying the float by 52. Once this card has been dealt, there is only 51 remaining cards in the deck, and therefore the second card translation is done by multiplying the second float generated by 51. This continues in the same fashion until all the game events required have been generated.
- With regards to Mines, Pump, Chicken and Keno, this is simply a matter of implementing the same process as explained with video poker but changing that to tiles or locations on the board or grid, ensuring that each game event generated, hasn’t already been done so beforehand in the chain of results.
- For games such as Keno, Mines, Pump, Chicken and Video Poker, where outcomes cannot be duplicated, we then utilise the Fisher-Yates shuffle algorithm. This procedure influences the conversion process from floats to game events because each time a game event is translated, the amount of possible remaining game event possibilities has been reduced for any remaining steps in the result chain.

- The goal of the game is to make a five-card combination that ranks higher than the combinations of other players. Each participant can use any combination of two personal cards (the so-called "hole" cards) dealt at the start of the game, and five community cards on the table (they are called "community" or "board" cards).
- The rules of Omaha are in many ways similar to the rules of Texas Hold'em. The main difference is that each player is dealt four face-down cards ("hole" cards), of which exactly two must be used, along with three of the five community cards, to make the best five-card combination.
- A royal flush is the highest combination in poker, consisting of an ace, king, queen, jack and ten of the same suit.
- A sequence of five cards of the same suit. In case of a tie, the combination with the highest card wins. A straight flush is beaten only by a royal flush or a higher straight flush.
- Four cards of the same rank plus one any additional card (the "kicker"). In case of a tie, the player with the higher kicker wins.

- Three cards of one rank and a pair of another rank. If two players have a full house, the one with the higher three of a kind wins. If the three of a kind are equal, the winner is determined by the higher pair.
- Five cards of the same suit that are not in sequence. The strength of a flush is determined by the highest card. If they match, the next highest cards are compared, and so on.
- A combination of five consecutive cards. The value of the combination is determined by the highest card in the straight. Suits are not considered; only the sequence matters. If two players have straights, the one with the higher top card wins. If they match, the next highest cards are compared, and so on.
- Three cards of the same rank. In case of a tie, the player with the highest kicker wins; if necessary, the second-highest kicker is compared.
- A pair of cards of one rank and a pair of another rank plus one additional card (kicker). In case of a tie, the player with the highest pair wins. If the highest pairs are the same, the second pair is considered; if those are also equal, the kicker is compared.
- Two cards of the same rank and three unrelated additional cards. In case of a tie, the player with the highest pair wins; if the pairs are the same, the highest kicker is compared, then the second and third, if needed.
- Any hand that does not fall into the above categories. In case of a tie, the player with the highest card wins; if that also matches, the remaining cards are compared in descending order until the tie is resolved.

- Megaways games In Megaways slots, the number of ways to form winning combinations usually reaches 117 649. Special modifiers change the number of symbols on the reels with each spin. In most slots in this category, the minimum RTP is 96%.
- Progressive jackpots The jackpot amount is unlimited and constantly grows, often reaching millions. It is formed on the basis of several games across different casinos.

- Volatility determines how often wins occur and what their potential size is. For example, low-volatility games are suitable for long sessions, as small payouts occur more often in them. High-volatility slots pay out less often, but they can be significantly larger. Ultimately, the choice depends on your goals, play style, and budget.
- Every spin is controlled by a random number generator (RNG). This system produces results that cannot be predicted or influenced. The RNG runs continuously, even when no one is playing, guaranteeing the fairness of gameplay across the entire industry.
- Symbols are the foundation of the mechanics of any slot machine. Wilds help complete winning combinations, Scatters often unlock access to free spins, and multipliers can increase the final payout.

- Slots with increased RTP — play with the highest return-to-player rates only on Stake!
- When choosing a quality online slot, experienced players often look at the RTP indicator. This indicator reflects the amount of funds that can be expected to be returned during a gaming session.
- This page presents a collection of popular slots in which payouts are generated more often than in many other gaming machines. The RTP level in these games is exclusive to Stake.com and is not found on other platforms.
- Below we will explain in detail what the RTP indicator means and why it is important. We will also present a list of the best video slots with a high RTP and the providers supplying for - Understanding how the RTP indicator works in online slots is easier than it seems. Imagine a slot with an indicator of RTP 100%. This would mean that over an average gaming session all staked funds are returned in full — no more and no less.

- Today the average RTP indicator in online slots is about 96%. This means that for every 100 staked units, about 96 units are returned over the long term.
- Of course, over the short term results may differ, bringing either a higher or a lower return from the bet.
- Slots with a high RTP have an indicator above 97%, and sometimes it reaches 98–99%.
- Knowing the importance of the RTP indicator, you can consciously choose slots for play. If you are looking for slots with a high RTP on Stake, we recommend starting with the following games:
- You can calculate the RTP indicator of a slot yourself using a simple formula.
- To do this, it is enough to divide the total amount of payouts of the slot by the total volume of bets made. Although these data are not always available to ordinary players, we strive for transparency and show how simply RTP is determined.
- For example, imagine that in one month the volume of bets in a video slot amounted to 1,5 million credits, and the amount of payouts to players — 1,42 million credits. Let us perform the following calculation:
- In this example, the RTP indicator of the slot is 94,66%. This result is below the industry average, which may have several reasons. Most often the reason lies in the presence of a progressive jackpot, since wins in such slots occur less often.
- If you are new to the Stake casino and are just getting acquainted with popular slots with a high RTP and other games, getting started is very simple. You can transfer funds to

- Wild West Bounty: the Wild West Bounty slot by Pragmatic Play unfolds in the Wild West, where you will be searching for the Wild symbol. This special symbol is locked in place on the reels during the free spins feature. The maximum payout can reach 10 000x the original bet on any spin in the base game, and the RTP figure is 98,02%.

- One of the most useful tips for anyone who plays casino games with high RTP is to always check the volatility and the RTP level. - Double result (1st set/match). You can also place a double bet on a tennis match, where you select the same player to win the first set and then the whole match. This is an effective way to increase the value of your bet.
- Winner of the X set (select the winner of a specific set). How many times have you seen tennis matches play out on court one after another? This is an interesting bet – wagering on which player you think will win each set in the match, rather than simply picking the overall winner.
- X total games in a set (over/under). Another popular set bet in tennis is predicting the number of games that will be played in a set. The line may be set at 8.5, in which case you need to predict whether more or fewer games will be played in that set.
- Exact score of the 1st set. The first set in a tennis match is often unpredictable, but this is a great opportunity to predict the correct score of the two players. Whether it is 6:2 or 5:7, you can bet on the expected outcome of the first set to increase the value of your bet.

- Winner bet (Head to head). The simplest way to bet on tennis is a winner bet (often called a "head to head" bet in tennis). Choose the winner of the match, with the odds depending on how likely it is that one player will beat the other.
- Over/Under (total games) . Another popular bet in tennis is a bet on how many games you think will be played in the match. For example, if Sakkari and Gauff meet in a three-set match, the total line might be set at 22.5 games. Your task is to bet on whether more or fewer games will be played than the total line states, which is most often called "over/under", respectively.
- Handicap . A handicap bet is a great way to level the situation in your betting slip. The favorite is given a deficit that they must overcome, while the other player receives an advantage. A handicap of 3.5 games may be given to the underdog, which means that the favorite you bet on needs to win the set by at least 4 games to cover the handicap and win your bet.

- Try different types of roulette, from European to American. Whether you prefer the classic or Live format, we have a suitable option for every taste.
- Roulette is a classic casino game and one of the most popular games at the Stake online casino.
- Roulette is one of the most famous casino games in history, distinguished by generous payouts and a huge selection of bets. Stake casino offers many versions of roulette, making it the ideal place for those who want to try their luck and win big.
- The goal of the game is simple: place a bet on where the ball will stop after the wheel spins. Guess correctly and you win. In addition, you can place additional side bets on the table to increase your potential winnings.
- At first glance, roulette seems simple: just spin the wheel. But the game has well-thought-out betting systems that help you control your budget and adapt your strategy to your playing style.
- Online roulette has notable advantages over playing at land-based casinos. It offers better odds, a wide selection of versions from different providers, and more opportunities to win. All of this helps you plan your bets better and increase your chances of success.
- There are many theories about the origin of roulette. Some believe it was invented by the French mathematician Blaise Pascal in the XVII century. Others claim the game was invented by a French monk or even by the Chinese.

- Most likely, roulette appeared in France at the beginning of the XVIII century. Its predecessors were ancient games called Hoca and Portique. The word "roulette" is first mentioned in 1716 in Bordeaux. Over time, the game underwent changes and by 1790 it had acquired the modern form familiar to players around the world.
- There are subtle but important differences between the European, French and American versions of roulette.
- American roulette has two sectors on the wheel: 0 and 00. This increases the house edge and reduces the player's chances of winning, so this variant is considered less favorable and is not as popular as the others.
- With such a variety of classic roulette versions in the Stake casino library, players always have the opportunity to choose the ideal option for themselves and enjoy their favorite game in any format.
- Roulette is a classic casino game with simple and clear rules. Players spin a wheel with numbers from 0 to 36 and bet on which sector the ball will land in.
- Each number on the wheel is assigned a color: red or black. The color distribution is as follows:
- Zero (0) is highlighted in a special way: it is colored green. You can bet on it separately. In some versions of roulette, such as American roulette, there is also a double zero (00), which increases the house edge.
- Outside bets cover large groups of numbers. The probability of winning is higher, but the payouts are smaller. These include the following types of bets:
- Column: the wheel is divided into three columns of 12 numbers. A bet on one column. Payout: 2:1.
- Dozens: a bet on a group of 12 numbers (1–12, 13–24 or 25–36). Payout: 2:1.
- Even/Odd: a bet on whether an even or odd number will come up. Payout: 1:1.
- Red/Black: a bet on the color of the sector in which the ball will land. Payout: 1:1.
- Low/High: a bet on a range of numbers, from 1 to 18 or from 19 to 36. Payout: 1:1.
- Inside bets cover fewer numbers. They win less often but bring higher payouts.
- Single number (straight bet): a bet on a specific number. The highest payout: 35:1.
- Corner (square bet): a bet on four numbers that touch at the corners (for example, 1, 2, 4, 5). Payout: 8:1.
- Basket: American roulette only. A bet on five numbers: 0, 00, 1, 2, 3. Payout: 6:1.
- Six-line (double street): a bet on two adjacent lines, six numbers in total. Payout: 5:1.
- Although roulette is primarily based on luck and chance, there are strategies and betting systems that help you manage your budget and increase your chances of winning. Of course, it is impossible to predict exactly where the ball will stop, but a well-informed approach can significantly influence the outcome.

- European roulette is the classic version with one zero, providing balanced gameplay and fair odds. Try the live versions of European roulette on Stake, such as Live Immersive Roulette from Evolution or Lucky 6 Roulette from Pragmatic Play, and enjoy the atmosphere of a real casino in real time.
- If you prefer to play not in English, Stake also offers localized versions of games: Mega Roulette – Brazilian, Turkish Roulette, Hindi Roulette and Japanese Roulette.
- Roulette bets are based on groups of numbered cells (pockets), and the size of the win depends on the probability that the ball will stop in the chosen group. Below is a guide to the main types of bets. Please note that minor differences are possible in different versions of the game.

- Roulette is one of the most advantageous games in an online casino thanks to the low house edge, the high return to player rate (RTP) and flexible betting options. - // Random number generation based on following inputs: serverSeed, clientSeed, nonce and cursor
- The server seed is generated by our system as a random 64-character hex string. You are then provided with an encrypted hash of that generated server seed before you place any bets. The reason we provide you with the encrypted form of the server seed is to ensure that the un-hashed server seed cannot be changed by the casino operator, and that the player cannot calculate the results beforehand.

- To reveal the server seed from its hashed version, the seed must be rotated by the player, which triggers the replacement with a newly generated one.
- From this point you are able to verify that the hashed server seed matches that of the un-hashed server seed. This process can be verified via our un-hashed server seed function found in the menu above.
- The client seed belongs to the player and is used to ensure they have influence on the randomness of the outcomes generated. Without this component of the algorithm, the server seed alone would have complete leverage over the outcome of each bet.
- All players are free to edit and change their client seed regularly to create a new chain of random upcoming outcomes. This ensures the player has absolute control over the generation of the result, similar to cutting the deck at a brick and mortar casino.
- The nonce is simply a number that increments as every new bet is made. Due to the nature of the SHA256 cryptographic function, this creates a completely new result each time, without having to generate a new client seed and server seed.
- The implementation of nonce, ensures we remain committed to your client seed and server seed pair, whilst generating new results for each bet placed.
- We use 4 bytes of data to generate a single game result, and because SHA256 is limited to 32 bytes, we utilise this implementation of a cursor to give us the ability to create more game events without having to modify our provable fair algorithm.
- The cursor is only iterated over when the game being played requires the generation of more than 8 (32 bytes / 4 bytes) possible outcomes. For example: when we need to use more than 8 cards in a game of blackjack.
- The cursor starts as 0 and gets increased by 1 every time the 32 bytes are returned by the HMAC_SHA256 function. If we don’t require more than 8 random numbers to be generated for the game events, then the cursor does not increment as there is no need to generate any additional possible game outcomes.
- Video Poker (7 increments to generate 52 possible cards in a full deck)
- Rock Paper Scissors (Unlimited to cover required amount of cards and 3 increments per autobet game to cover 20 max cards)
- Games with only 1 incremental number (represented as default value 0):
- For each verifiable bet, a client seed, a server seed, a nonce and a cursor are used as the input parameters for the random number generation function. This function utilises the cryptographic hash function HMAC_SHA256 to generate bytes which are then used as the foundation for how we generate provably fair random outcomes on our platform.

- Game events are translation of the randomly generated floats into a relatable outcome that is game specific. This includes anything from the outcome of a dice roll to the order of the cards in a deck, or even the location of every bomb in a game of mines.
- Below is a detailed explanation as to how we translate floats into events for each particular different game on our platform.
- In a standard deck of cards, there are 52 unique possible outcomes. When it comes to playing Blackjack, Hilo & Baccarat on our platform, we utilise an unlimited amount of decks when generating the game event, and therefore each turn of a card always has the same probability. To calculate this, we multiply each randomly generated float by 52, and then translate that result into a particular card, based on the following index:
- The only differentiating factor involved with these games is that with Hilo and Blackjack there is a cursor of 13 to generate 52 possible game events for cases where a large amount of cards are required to be dealt to the player, whereas when it comes to Baccarat we only ever need 6 game events generated to cover the most amount of playable cards possible.
- In a game of Bars, 30 random floats between 0.0 and 1.0 are generated and used as the probability to select the winning bar from a predefined payout table. This payout table can be found at the footer of the Bars game and in the provable fairness verification calculation page.
- In a Cases bet, a single random float between 0.0 and 1.0 is generated, which is used as the probability to select the winning case from a predefined payout table. This payout table can be found at the footer of the Cases game and in the provable fairness verification calculation page.
- When it comes to Drill, we use an inverse formula to convert each random float into a crash point. The house edge (0.98) is divided by the complement of the float, creating a probability distribution where higher multipliers become exponentially rarer. If the float falls below 0.02, the drill stops instantly at 1.00x. This process is repeated three times to generate a crash point for each drill.
- In a Packs bet, five random floats between 0.0 and 1.0 are generated, one for each card in the pack. Each float is used as the probability to select a card from a predefined payout table containing 240 unique cards with different multipliers and rarities. This payout table can be found at the footer of the Packs game and in the provable fairness verification calculation page.
- Each of the 5 floats is independently mapped to a card using cumulative probability ranges, allowing for the possibility of receiving duplicate cards of the same rarity or multiplier within a single pack opening.
- In a Darts bet, two random float between 0.0 and 1.0 are generated, which are used as the distance and rotation to position the dart on the board. The rotation value is represented by 0.0 being the top of the dartboard, 0.5 being the bottom, and 1.0 wrapping back to the top. The distance value is normalized with sqrt(float) / 2, and is the distance from the center from 0.0 to 0.5, with 0.0 being the center and 0.5 being the edge of the board.
- A Flip game generates 20 separate game events, each representing the result of a coin flip. For each coin flip, if the value of the float is less than or equal to 0.5, the result is "tails", otherwise it is "heads".
- In a Snakes bet, 10 dice rolls are generated between integer values 1 and 6. The values are added together for each round for a total of 5 pairs of six sided dice rolls per round.
- When playing Diamonds, there is 7 possible outcomes in the form of gems. To achieve this, we multiply each float generated by 7 before it is translated into a corresponding gem using the following index:
- In our version of dice, we cover a possible roll spread of 00.00 to 100.00, which has a range of 10,001 possible outcomes. The game event translation is done by multiplying the float by number of possible outcomes and then dividing by 100 so that the resulting number fits the constraints of our stated dice range.

- Primedice uses the same dice roll mechanism as the regular Dice game, covering a possible roll spread of 00.00 to 100.00, which has a range of 10,001 possible outcomes. The game event translation is done by multiplying the float by number of possible outcomes and then dividing by 100 so that the resulting number fits the constraints of our stated dice range. The difference with Primedice is that it allows for more complex betting conditions including rolling between two numbers, rolling outside a range, or rolling between two pairs of numbers.
- For any game of Plinko, the generated outcome is based on the path of the falling ball. The game event determines the direction of the falling ball for each level in the falling process. Players can choose between 8 and 16 pins of play, which determines the number of game events required to generate a complete path from top to bottom. Since there are only two possible directions (left or right) the translation is done by multiplying each float by 2, which maps to the following index:
- Our Roulette is derived from the European version of the game where the wheel consists of 37 possible different pockets, ranging from 0 to 36. The game event is calculated by multiplying the float by 37 and then translated into a corresponding pocket using the following index:
- Traditional Keno games require the selection of 10 possible game events in the form of hits on a board. To achieve this, we multiply each float by the number of possible unique squares that exist. Once a hit has been placed, it cannot be chosen again, which changes the pool size of the possible outcomes. This is done by subtracting the size of possible maximum outcomes by 1 for each iteration of game event result generated using the corresponding float provided, using the following index:
- A mine game is generated with 24 separate game events, in the form of mines on the board. Each float is multiplied by the number of possible unique tiles still remaining on the board. This is done by subtracting the number of tiles remaining by 1 for each iteration of game event result generated using the corresponding float provided. The location of the mine is plotted using a grid position from left to right, top to bottom.
- The fisher-yates shuffle implementation is utilised to prevent duplicate possible hits being generated. Between 1 and 24 game event results are used, based on the settings chosen.
- In a Moles bet, the player selects between 1 and 6 moles on a board of 7 holes. Each round, mole positions are generated using a fisher-yates shuffle across the 7 holes, consuming one float per mole. New positions are generated each round, with a game lasting up to 8 rounds (1 mole) or 9 rounds (2-6 moles).
- A Pump game is generated with 24 separate game events, in the form of pops at each round. Each float is multiplied by the number of rounds remaining. This is done by subtracting the number of rounds remaining by 1 for each pump.
- A Chicken game is generated with 20 separate game events, in the form of deaths at each round. Each float is multiplied by the number of rounds remaining. This is done by subtracting the number of rounds remaining by 1 for each step.
- The fisher-yates shuffle implementation is utilised to prevent duplicate possible hits being generated. Between 1 and 20 game event results are used, based on the settings chosen.
- Rock Paper Scissors rounds are generated individually for an unlimited number of rounds, except for in autobet which is limited to 20 max rounds. A number between 0 and 2 is generated for each round and assigned to rock (0), paper (1) or scissors (2).
- A video poker game involves 52 separate game events, in the form of cards in a deck. Each float is multiplied by the number of possible cards still remaining in the deck. This is done by subtracting the number of cards remaining by 1 for each iteration of game event result generated using the corresponding float provided. This is done by selecting a card from the following index:

- The fisher-yates shuffle implementation is utilised to prevent duplicate cards being generated.
- The game event number is calculated by multiplying the float by the possible outcomes in the segment. It is then used to determine the game event result as a multiplier, using the following index:
- For this game, we utilise the salt hash based provable fairness modal for this particular game.
- Special spins are slightly different. For a start only 12 floats are taken from your hash, as the outer reels are disabled. Between each special spin, any samurai symbols stay in place for the remainder of the game, with the payout being the final count of samurais. This means that if you were to have for example 1 samurai stick in the first spin - we'd technically only need 11 floats for the subsequent spin. For the sake of simplicity in the probably fair model, we just generate 12 floats every time, and if the float that was allocated for a tile has a stuck samurai from a previous spin, then that float is not used at all.
- A Dragon Tower game is generated with 9 separate game events, in the form of the levels up the tower. We generate a number of eggs depending on the difficulty for each level, and have a range of tiles the egg can be on also represented by an integer.
- Each float generated is then converted to integers to determine the egg location on each row. For example: A level on difficulty easy would be represented like this: [0, 1, 3] - eggs would be present at tile 1 and 2 and 4.
- The fisher-yates shuffle implementation is utilised to prevent duplicate eggs on a row.
- When it comes to Limbo, we use a two-step process. Firstly, we take the float and multiply it by both the maximum possible multiplier and the house edge. Then, in order to generate a game event that has probability distribution , we divide the maximum possible multiplier by the result of the first step to create the game event in the form of a crash point.
- See the BitcoinTalk seeding thread to learn about how we utilise the salt hash based provable fairness modal for this particular game.
- We use weighted random sampling to assign each float to its corresponding tile, in the same order, moving down the reels, from left to right. Each symbol has its own fixed probability / chance of appearing in any one tile, with the outer 2 reels having a different set of probabilities to the inner 3 reels. For a bit more information on how symbols are selected, see fitness proportionate selection algorithm to learn more.
- Going through a losing streak? Stake will return part of your losses when you reach a new level.
- 2. Do you have to bet frequently to be considered a person suffering from gambling addiction?
- The frequency of betting does not matter. If gambling causes difficulties in relationships, emotional, physical, financial or other problems for a person and those around them, it means they suffer from gambling addiction.
- Do not try to win back your losses and do not strive to win at any cost, since no betting outcome is guaranteed.
- When you stop enjoying the game, this is a clear signal that it is time to stop.

Responsible gaming and limits

- Although the gameplay itself is simple and based on the principle of randomness, certain betting strategies can help increase your chances of winning. Depending on the type of baccarat and the available options, you can bet on a tie or on various pairs.
- The advantage of online baccarat is that the house edge is lower compared to a physical casino, depending on the game and the provider.

- The Stake online casino offers a wide selection of baccarat for all levels of play. Whether you are an amateur or a professional gambler, an exciting gaming experience awaits you at Stake.com.
- An ace can count as either 1 or 11 points – depending on what is more advantageous for your hand. It is at this stage that the choice between a "soft" and a "hard" hand becomes important. If the sum of your first two cards is exactly 21, you receive a payout at a ratio of 3:2.
- Always remember the importance of responsible gaming . Review our Stake Smart recommendations . We also recommend using the budget calculator and the betting limits guide to determine how much you are willing to allocate to gaming per month.
- A sensible approach to choosing your bet size will allow you to maintain your gaming balance longer and get the most enjoyment from the process. Before you start, review our responsible gaming tools and choose a suitable strategy so that you can clearly control your bet size if necessary.
- Finally, it's important to always exercise responsible gambling practices and follow our tips to help you Stake Smart . You can use our betting limits and budgeting guide and our budgeting calculator to help set appropriate limits when playing online.

- The online budget calculator is just one of the responsible gaming tools available on Stake. The following tools will help you follow the Stake Smart principles:
- Self-assessment Test NOD of 10 questions that will help you better understand your gaming habits. Start the test on the "Responsible Gaming" page and answer the questions. It will take about 3 minutes.
- Loss limits Limit the amount you can lose per day, week or month. The limit applies to net loss, so profit during the selected period is not counted as a loss when calculating the limit. On the "Responsible Gaming" page, open the gaming limits section and select the "Losses" type. Specify the amount and period: day, week or month.
- Betting limits Limit the total amount of bets over a certain period. The limit takes effect immediately, and it can only be changed after a 24-hour waiting period. On the "Responsible Gaming" page, open the gaming limits section and select the "Bets" type. Specify the amount and period: day, week or month.
- Restricting access to a specific product Blocks the ability to place bets on the sportsbook platform or play in the casino for a selected period. Request a restriction of access to a specific product, select casino or the sports betting section and specify the period.
- Self-exclusion If you already have gambling problems or a risk of developing them, self-exclusion allows you to close your account for an indefinite period. On the "Responsible Gaming" page, open the self-exclusion section. Request self-exclusion and select the indefinite option.
- Limit your bet size during play so as not to exceed your budget. With a sensible approach, even a small budget can last a long time. One of the best ways to manage your bankroll is to limit your bet size to a certain percentage of the total bankroll. Then, as the bankroll decreases, your bets will decrease, and as it grows, they will increase. On the "Responsible Gaming" page, you can set betting limits. - Bonus buy slots – the best games with a direct bonus buy option
- However, if it frustrates you when bonus symbols land too rarely, the ability to trigger a bonus round at any time and play it for as long as you like may prove far more appealing. Ultimately, only you can decide whether a small fee to trigger the bonus is worth it or not.
- The main difference between bonus buys and Ante bets lies in the way the bonus round is accessed. A bonus buy means you directly purchase access to the game's bonus round. You do not need to play the base game at all to activate it. Ante bets mean you usually pay a smaller amount per spin in the base game to increase the chance of bonus symbols or Scatter symbols landing on the reels.
- At the Stake casino you will find not only the best bonus buy slots, but also a whole range of attractive

Restriction of access to a specific product	Blocks the ability to place bets on the sportsbook platform or play at the casino for the selected period.
