ENV-FR-MELBET · mobile series conditions

I compared Android APK and iOS WebView separately on NET-W; brightness 55%, power saving off, charge at the start of the resource series 80%, duration 15 min, room temperature 22 °C. I measured the case temperature in the profile with a contact sensor at one point on the back panel; the stated difference is not a subjective sensation of heating. iOS WebView — operator container, and Safari — separate browser route.

Verification	Android	iOS WebView	Result
Receipt and installation	APP-FR-MELBET-A: package APK, version/build and size in the passport	APP-FR-MELBET-I: WKWebView container and a separate edition of resources	I completed the installation route and the first launch in the profile; access to the public distribution and its signature are described separately.
Update	New build over the previous one in the same channel	Container update separately from web resources	I preserved the history and currency of EUR; the accepted round was not debited again.

Biometrics	System biometrics after the first login	Face ID after the first login	I checked the repeat login; biometric failure returned to password entry and did not disable KYC.
External callback	Return to the same ID of the cashier	Return from Safari to WKWebView	I received the previous status; there was no second credit.
Rotation	Portrait → landscape → portrait	Portrait → landscape → portrait	I preserved the selected amount, buttons and history; the current rate remained unchanged.

Verification	Android	iOS WebView	Result
Network change	NET-W → NET-M → NET-W	NET-W → NET-M → NET-W	I reconciled the accepted ID before the retry; before acceptance debit 0, after acceptance the original settlement was restored.
Product boundary	Operator application	Operator application	No standalone Tower Rush application is created; Betclic France does not receive the cash catalog of Tower Rush.

I performed five attempts of each action on each platform. In the rows with 4/5 the fifth attempt ended in a timeout of 10.000 s; it is not included in the average of successful launches. The first four numbers refer to attempts 1–4. After the timeout I reopened the history rather than submitting a new bet. The cold and warm intervals ended with an available lobby control; the separate game launch — with an available Build button in FUN.

- The gambling participant guarantees that participation in the gambling game will not be carried out using funds belonging to third parties.
- The gambling participant, as the only person possessing at the time of placing the interactive bet full information about the sources of origin of the funds at his disposal, independently takes sufficient measures to prevent the use for participation in the gambling game of funds that are not income of the gambling participant in accordance with art. 208 of the Tax Code of the Russian Federation, funds of other persons, borrowed funds and other funds whose use for participation in the gambling game is prohibited in accordance with these Rules.

- 3.2.12. Contact the client by any means, including by using a video conference.
- 3.2.13. Limit the maximum amount of a bet or forecast, refuse to conclude repeated forecasts on sports events for the same outcome, reduce odds on individual events without notification and explanation of reasons.

- For a forecast of the "Single" / "Ordinary" type, the odds on the event must be greater than "1.1".
- For a forecast of the "Express" type, the final odds on all events included in the express must be greater than "1.1".
- For a forecast of the "System" type, the odds on each of the events included in the system must be greater than "1.1".
- In the event of refusal to participate in a video conference or in another method of communication allowing visual contact with the client to be established, the client independently bears all consequences of such refusal.

- - has the opportunity to influence the result of the event, being a direct participant in the match (athletes, referees, coaches, etc.), their relative;

- 4.3.8. To use technical and software means enabling the automation of the gambling process.
- 4.3.10. To use strategies or gaming schemes guaranteeing a constant increase in balance, including through mathematical probabilities.
- 5.8. The winnings are inextricably linked to the identity of the gambling participant and are of material significance for the purposes of paying them to the gambling participant.
- The gambling participant is not entitled to transfer (assign) to another person the right to claim winnings, including any that will arise in the future (future claim).
- 5.9. The balance on the gambling participant's account, reflected in the gambling participant's personal cabinet (account), is not winnings or the result of gambling.
- 6.2. The subject of the prediction is one or more events unknown at the time the prediction is made.
- 6.7. The minimum prediction amount that can be placed on an event (events) is 25 RUB.
- If the outcome (result) of a completed event was for any reason annulled or changed after its publication, the prediction is settled on the basis of the originally published information.
- 6.15. If an event that has not yet started is postponed by no more than 24 hours, all predictions on such event remain valid.
- If an event is postponed by more than 24 hours, all predictions are subject to return unless otherwise provided by the Rules.
- For baseball and ice hockey matches played in the formats (3x5), (3x7), (3x10), (3x15), the time set in this clause is 8 hours instead of 24 hours.
- If NBA (NBA), NHL (NHL), NFL (NFL), WBL (MLB) matches did not take place on the scheduled days, then predictions are subject to settlement with odds «1», except in cases where the match is a playoff stage meeting and where the date was incorrectly specified.

- 6.16. Interrupted events that are not continued or not completed within 24 hours are considered to have taken place or not to have taken place according to the rules provided for the given event (with the exception of such sports as tennis, snooker, badminton, table tennis, for which the specified limitation does not apply).
- The outcomes of events considered to have taken place are settled according to the actual results registered at the moment of interruption, and the outcomes of events considered not to have taken place are subject to settlement with odds «1», except for outcomes that had already become unambiguously known at the moment of interruption of the event, the result of which does not depend on the final result of the event (for example, a team will score a goal, both teams will score a goal, who will score the first goal, one of the teams will win in the first half, etc.).
- If during the specified period it becomes known that the interrupted event will not be continued but will be started anew, the outcomes of the event that had become unambiguously known at the moment of interruption are subject to settlement, and the remaining outcomes are settled with odds «1».
- At the same time, predictions made between the erroneous settlement and the recalculation are considered valid.
- If the technical error that occurred cannot affect the results of the event and the settlement of predictions, then the predictions are settled at the original odds.
- Predictions made after the outcome of the event has been determined are settled with odds «1».
- In the event that an event offered in the «LIVE» section is interrupted and, according to official information, will continue later, then predictions on such an event offered in the «LIVE» section (predictions of the «LIVE» type) are considered valid.
- 6.23. In the list of events, the team on whose field the match is played is listed first.
- If the match is played on the field of the team whose name is indicated second, then predictions for this match are calculated with a coefficient of «1», except in the following cases:
- 6.24. After placing an interactive bet, the gambling participant has the right to conclude predictions both for the entire amount of the interactive bet and for a part of it.
- For this type of prediction, the gambling participant must correctly predict one or more interrelated outcomes of a single event.
- To determine the probable amount of winnings for a prediction, the prediction amount should be multiplied by the offered coefficient.
- If we place 1000 on the victory of team 1 (W1) with the offered coefficient 2.5, and team 1 wins, the winnings amount will be 1000 x 2.5 = 2500.
- If for any reason the prediction is subject to return, the prediction amount is multiplied by the coefficient «1».
- For this type of prediction, the gambling participant must correctly predict the outcomes of several events.
- All events included in the accumulator must not be interrelated.
- If interrelated events were included in the accumulator, then only the event with the highest coefficient is taken into account for calculating the prediction.
- To determine the probable amount of winnings for an accumulator, the coefficients of all events included in the accumulator should be multiplied, and then the prediction amount should be multiplied by the resulting coefficient.

- If we place 800 on an accumulator consisting of the following events: Georgia – Belarus W1 with coefficient 2, Norway – Serbia X with coefficient 3.5, Bulgaria – Hungary W2 with coefficient 2.5, and all event outcomes are predicted correctly, then the probable winnings amount will be 800 x (2 x 3.5 x 2.5) = 14000.
- If the outcome of one event is predicted incorrectly, the accumulator is considered lost.
- If one of the events included in the accumulator was calculated with a coefficient of «1», then such an event does not affect the results of the other events included in the accumulator.
- A system is a combination of a certain number of accumulators.
- This type of bet is characterized by an equal share of the total bet amount for each component (each accumulator) and an equal number of events included in them (in each accumulator).
- The gambling participant must specify the total number of all events included in the system, as well as choose the size of the system (the number of events included in each component (accumulator)).
- The forecast amount for a component (a single accumulator) is determined by dividing the forecast amount by the number of components included in the system (the number of accumulators).
- To determine the probable payout amount for the system, one should obtain the sum of all probable payouts for the accumulators included in the system.
- Thus, the total probable payout amount for the system will be equal to the sum of the probable payouts of all accumulators, i.e. 2800 + 2000 + 3500 = 8300.
- In the event that the outcome of the 1-th event was predicted incorrectly, the probable payout amount for the system will be equal to the payout amount for the accumulator in which the remaining 2 outcomes were predicted correctly.
- For example, suppose the outcome of the event Scotland – Israel X was predicted incorrectly, then all components (accumulators) in which this event was included are considered lost (accumulator 1 and 3), and only accumulator 2 wins.
- Thus, the total probable payout amount for the system is equal to the probable payout for accumulator 2 – 2000.
- In the event of incorrect prediction of the outcomes of 2 or more events for system 2/3, the forecast is considered lost.
- If one of the events included in the system was settled with odds «1», then such an event does not affect the results of the other events included in the system.
- This type of forecast represents a forecast on the outcome of events that have not yet started.
- Forecasts of this type are accepted exclusively before the actual start of the event.
- This type of forecast represents a forecast on the outcome of an event that has already started during its course.
- Forecasts of this type are accepted exclusively during the period from the actual start of the event until its end.
- 8.1.6. One of the participants (teams) will win (there will be no draw) – designated «12».

- The handicap is written in the form of fractional numbers (for example 0,5, 1,5, 2,5, ...) or whole numbers (for example 1, 2, 3, ...) and has a «+» or «-» sign.
- A handicap with a "+" sign shows the point (goal, set, second, etc.) difference by which a participant (team) may lose (i.e. lose by a smaller margin) for the prediction to be correct.
- A handicap with a "-" sign shows the point (goal) difference that a participant (team) must overcome (i.e. win by a larger margin) for the prediction to be correct.
- If the final point (goal, set, second, etc.) difference coincides with the handicap value expressed in whole numbers, the prediction is settled at odds of "1".
- 8.2.1. "Handicap 0" or "Draw No Bet" is a prediction that one of the teams will win.
- If the event ends in a draw, the prediction is settled at odds of "1".
- 8.2.2. Asian handicap and Asian total with handicap and total are a type of handicap prediction where the handicap and total value is a multiple of 0.25 and is not divisible by 0.5 without a remainder (odd numbers that are multiples of 0.25, 0.75, 1.25, ... 3.25, 3.75, etc.).
- A prediction with an Asian handicap/total is split into 2 parts: the argument of one of them is greater than the offered handicap/total argument by 0.25, and that of the other is less by 0.25.
- The stake of a prediction on an Asian handicap/total is split into two equal parts between the first and second parts of the prediction, and the prediction odds remain the same for the first and second parts of the prediction.
- The probable payout for a prediction made on an Asian handicap/total will be the sum of the probable payouts of the first and second parts of the prediction.
- In this case the probable payout is calculated as the product of the stake and the odds.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome "Handicap 1 (-0.25)" at odds of 1.85 (the first part of the prediction – 500 on the outcome "Handicap 1 (-0.5)" at odds of 1.85, and the second part of the prediction – 500 the outcome "Handicap 1 (0)" at odds of 1.85).
- 2) Half of the prediction is correct, and the other half is settled at odds of "1".
- The probable payout is calculated as the product of the stake and the odds (odds +1)/2.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome "Total over 2.75" at odds of 1.7 (the first part of the prediction – 500 on the outcome "Total over 2.5" at odds of 1.7, and the second part of the prediction – 500 the outcome "Total over 3" at odds of 1.7).
- One half of the prediction turned out to be correct, and the other is settled at odds of "1".
- 3) Half of the prediction is incorrect, and the other half is settled at odds of "1".
- The probable payout is calculated as the product of the stake and the number 1/2.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome "Handicap 1 (-1.25)" at odds of 2.6 (the first part of the prediction – 500 on the outcome "Handicap 1 (-1.5)" at odds of 2.6, and the second part of the prediction – 500 the outcome "Handicap 1 (-1)" at odds of 2.6).
- One half of the prediction turned out to be incorrect, and the other is settled at odds of "1".
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome "Total over 3.75" at odds of 2.9 (the first part of the prediction – 500 on the outcome "Total over 3.5" at odds of 2.9, and the second part of the prediction – 500 the outcome "Total over 4" at odds of 2.9).

- If a prediction with an Asian handicap (total) is included in a parlay or system, the prediction odds are calculated in the same way as in the case of a single prediction.
- 8.2.3. European handicap is a handicap written as a score, where one of the participants (teams) is given a certain score advantage in order to win or not lose, expressed in whole numbers (2, 1, -1, -2, etc.).
- A prediction with a European handicap involves determining one of three outcomes: “W1”, “X”, “W2”.
- Predictions with a European handicap are settled based on the imaginary match score (the score obtained by adding the European handicap score to the final match score).
- To settle a prediction with a European handicap, it is not the real match score (with which the match actually ended) that is taken into account, but the score that results if the European handicap score is added to the real game score.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome “Handicap (1:0) – W1” at odds of 1.9.
- The prediction turned out to be correct, since when the handicap score is added to the game score, the imaginary game score becomes (1:0), and the first participant will win.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome “Handicap (1:0) – Draw” at odds of 1.9.
- The prediction turned out to be correct, since when the handicap score is added to the game score, the imaginary game score becomes (3:3), and a draw will be recorded in the match.
- The gambling participant made a prediction in the amount of 1000 on the outcome “Handicap (1:0) – W2” at odds of 1.9.
- The prediction turned out to be correct, since when the handicap score is added to the game score, the imaginary game score becomes (2:3), and the second participant will win.
- If the final point (goal, set, second, etc.) difference coincides with the European handicap value, predictions on the outcomes “W1” and “W2” are settled as losing.
- 8.3. A prediction on the total number of points (goals, games, etc.) scored by a participant (team) is designated as “Total”.
- Total is written as fractional numbers (for example, 0,5, 1,5, 2,5, ...) or whole numbers (for example, 1, 2, 3, ...).
- When settling a prediction in which it is proposed to determine whether the total number of points (goals, games, etc.) scored by a participant (team) will be even or odd, a game score of 0:0 is considered even.
- In this prediction it is proposed to determine when a particular event will occur (the time of the 1th goal, the time of the 1st corner, etc.).
- The exact time for settling the prediction is determined without taking seconds into account (seconds are rounded up to the minute).
- The first team will win, the number of cautions (yellow cards) will be more than 3.5 and the number of corners will be less than 10.
- The first team will start the game from the center of the field, the second team will score the first goal and there will be a draw.
- If all outcomes of the prediction are predicted correctly, the amount of the betting slips used for the prediction is multiplied by the offered odds.
- If one of the outcomes of the prediction was settled at odds of “1”, and the remaining outcomes of the prediction were predicted correctly, the prediction is settled at odds of "1".

- If one of the outcomes of the prediction was predicted incorrectly, the prediction is considered lost.
- 8.8. "Clean win" – a prediction that a team will win the match and the other team will not concede a single goal (puck, ...) or will not lose a single game (set, ...).
- Results recorded in post-match added time and penalties are not taken into account when settling predictions on outcomes offered for regular time.
- Time added by the referee is attributed to the corresponding half or regular time of the match.
- Regular time for football matches is set at 90 minutes of playing time (2 halves of 45 minutes each).
- 9.1.2.7. The first team will win the match (half) taking the handicap into account – "Handicap 1".
- 9.1.2.8. The second team will win the match (half) taking the handicap into account – "Handicap 2".

- 9.1.2.12. A prediction on the comparative scoring of the halves (in which half more goals will be scored):
- - the first half will be more productive 1 > 2 (more goals will be scored in the first half than in the second);
- - the scoring of the halves will be equal 1 = 2 (the number of goals scored in the first and second halves will be equal).
- - the second half will be more productive 1 < 2 (fewer goals will be scored in the first half than in the second).
- It is proposed to determine simultaneously the result of the first half and of the entire match.
- - "W1W2" – the first team wins the first half and the second team wins the match.
- - "W2W1" – the second team wins the first half and the first team wins the match.

- 9.1.2.36. Prediction of which of the teams will receive (no one will receive) the next caution (yellow card).
- If a player is sent off due to two cautions, only one is counted when calculating cautions (yellow cards); the second caution (yellow card) is calculated as a red card.
- 9.1.2.37. Prediction that in the match (half), on the number of corners, the first team – "W1" – will win.
- 9.1.2.38. Prediction that on the number of corners in the match (in the half) there will be a draw – "Draw".

- - “Penta-trick” (exactly 5 and no more goals scored by the same player into the opponent's goal during the match).
- If 2 or more of the above-listed outcomes, made by different players, were registered in the match, then predictions on these outcomes are considered won.
- - With a header (if the goal into the opponent's goal was scored with a header).

- - From a free kick (if the goal into the opponent's goal was scored from a free kick without playing the ball; a goal scored directly from a corner kick is also considered a goal from a free kick).
- - From a penalty (if the goal was scored with a direct kick; a goal scored from a played or saved penalty is not taken into account when calculating the prediction).
- - From open play (if the goal was scored from open play with a kick or in another permissible manner, except with a header, and if the goal was not scored from a free kick or a penalty and was not recorded as an own goal).
- 9.1.2.59. Prediction on whether this team will achieve a comeback win in the match or not.

- 9.1.2.69. Prediction of the number of video reviews in the match (half) – "Total more (less) than the total value".
- A video review is considered to be a situation when the main referee gestures to indicate a video review (depicts a rectangle in the air with his hands) and heads to the video review screen.
- The following do not count as video replays: "Goal Check" (Goal Check/Гол Чек) or "11-metre penalty check" (Penalty Check/Пенальти Чек) messages on the scoreboard or screen, the head referee raising a hand to an ear, and messages relating to any checks.
- A situation when the referee discusses a game episode with the assistants is also not considered a video review.
- If the displayed added time (minute) and the actual time played differ, the displayed time is taken into account when calculating the prediction.
- If the information about added time (minute) shown on the TV screen or by the reserve referee on the scoreboard is subsequently changed for any reason (increased or decreased), predictions on the outcomes of this event are calculated based on the original information.

- If more than one medical team simultaneously enters the field of play for a player or players of one team or players of two opposing teams, the medical team is considered to have entered the field of play 1 times.
- If the medical team entered the field of play but medical assistance was not provided, the medical team is considered not to have entered the field of play.
- If the medical team provides medical assistance to a player outside the boundaries of the field of play, the medical team is considered not to have entered the field of play.
- The prediction offers to determine one of three outcomes: "W1", "X", "W2", which would have been recorded in the match from the moment the prediction was made until the end of the match, disregarding the result that was recorded in the match before the prediction was made.
- To calculate the prediction on the remainder of the match, the actual match score (with which the match actually ended) is not taken into account, but rather the score that results if the result recorded in the match before the prediction was made is subtracted from the actual match score.
- A participant in the gambling game made a prediction on the 76th minute of the match on the outcome "Remainder of the match – W2".
- The prediction turned out to be correct, since when subtracting the game score recorded before the 76th minute of the match from the actual game score, the imaginary game score becomes (0:1).
- The prediction offers to determine one of three outcomes: "W1", "X", "W2", which would have been recorded in the match at the end of the specified time interval, disregarding the result that was recorded in the match before the start of the specified time interval.
- To calculate the prediction, the actual match score that was actually recorded in the match at the end of the specified time interval is not taken into account, but rather the score that results if the result recorded in the match before the start of the specified time interval is subtracted from the actual match score at the end of the specified time interval.
- The prediction turned out to be correct, since when subtracting the game score recorded before the 16th minute of the match from the game score recorded at the end of the 30th minute of the match, the imaginary game score becomes (0:1).
- The prediction offers to determine that the total number of goals scored in the match during the specified time interval will be more or less than a given number.
- To calculate the prediction, the actual match score that was actually recorded in the match at the end of the specified time interval is not taken into account, but rather the score that results if the result recorded in the match before the start of the specified time interval is subtracted from the actual match score at the end of the specified time interval.
- A participant in the gambling game made a prediction on the outcome "Total from 16-30 min. More (1.5)".
- The prediction turned out to be incorrect, since when subtracting the game score recorded before the 16th minute of the match from the game score recorded at the end of the 30th minute of the match, the imaginary game score becomes (0:1).
- The top scorer of the championship is considered to be the player who has scored the greatest number of goals in the regular time of the match and in extra periods.
- In the event of a complete coincidence of the above-mentioned player indicators, all players with the corresponding indicators are considered the top scorers of the championship.

- In the event of the current scorer of a club championship transferring to another club championship, predictions are calculated as follows:
- - if the player took part in more than half of all matches of the specified club championship, predictions are calculated according to the final result of the championship.
- - if the player did not take part in more than half of all matches of the specified club championship, all predictions on the outcome "Top scorer of the championship", including predictions on other players, are calculated with a coefficient of "1".
- 9.1.3. A single scored goal is counted as both the first and the last goal scored.
- 9.1.4. An own goal is taken into account when calculating the total goals total in the match, but is not taken into account when calculating the individual team totals.
- 9.1.5. When calculating predictions related to sendings-off and cautions, only sendings-off and cautions given to players who are on the pitch during the match, with their direct participation in the game, are taken into account.
- The exception is the case where the referee during the interval shows a yellow or red card to a player who played in the first half and has not yet been substituted.
- In this case, the yellow or red card received is also taken into account when calculating bets on cautions and sendings-off (it is considered that the card shown during the interval was shown in the second half, and the minute of the card being issued is the 46th).
- When calculating predictions made on the outcomes of sendings-off and cautions, sendings-off and cautions given to substitute players or to players who participated in the game but were substituted, to the coach or coaching staff, are not taken into account, and cautions and sendings-off made after the final whistle announcing the end of the match are also not taken into account.
- The time of recording a caution or sending-off is taken as the time the referee shows the yellow or red card.
- 9.1.6. When calculating predictions related to corner kicks, a corner kick is considered taken only after the ball has been put into play from the corner mark.
- An awarded but not taken corner kick is not counted when calculating predictions on corner kick outcomes.
- 9.1.7. When calculating predictions related to shots hitting the post/crossbar, a shot hitting the post/crossbar is registered if, after touching the post/crossbar, the ball remains in play.
- - if the ball touched the post/crossbar and rolled out of the field (before leaving the field it did not touch any player or referee).
- - if a goal was recorded after touching the post/crossbar (after touching the post or crossbar the ball did not touch any player or referee and went straight into the goal).
- If the ball touches the post and then the crossbar, or vice versa – first touches the crossbar and then the post, or touches the crossbar and the post simultaneously, it is considered that the ball touched the post/crossbar once, if after the first touch the ball did not in any way touch any player or referee.

- 9.1.11. If, due to the absence of information about the match interruption, the acceptance of Live bets was not suspended, and such bets were accepted after the actual interruption of the match, all such bets are subject to settlement with odds of «1».
- The actual time of the match interruption is determined by official information.
- In disputed situations where the recorded minutes of playing time of the match differ between bets on match outcomes and match statistics placed in real time at the same time, the playing time recorded when the bet on the match outcome was placed shall be taken as the basis.

- 9.2.2.19. Bet on whether the first (second) team will score (will not score) a goal.
- 9.2.2.21. Bet on which team will score (no one will score) the first (second or next) goal in the match.

- 9.2.2.24. Bet on the comparative efficiency of the periods (in which period more goals will be scored).
- 9.2.2.25. Bet on whether the winner of the match will be determined in overtime (in the shootout series).

- 9.2.2.28. Bet on whether the given team will achieve a comeback win in the match or not.
- 9.2.2.29. Bet on the number of video reviews in the match – «Total over (under) the total value».
- 9.2.4. An ice hockey match that was interrupted and was not continued or completed within 24 hours is considered to have taken place if at least 50 minutes were played.
- In other cases, ice hockey matches are considered void.
- Bets placed on the «Game Winner» outcomes of ice hockey matches that were interrupted at a tied score and are considered to have taken place are settled with odds of «1».
- 9.2.5. A technical win (loss) awarded for any reason is not grounds for settling bets.

- 9.4.3. If in a tennis match that has started one of the tennis players (one of the pairs) is for any reason disqualified, refuses to play or is unable to continue playing, the match ends prematurely, and predictions are settled with odds "1", except for predictions on outcomes that become unambiguously known at the moment the match is interrupted.
- 9.4.6. If before the start of the match one of the sides refuses to participate in the game, then predictions on all outcomes of this match are settled with odds "1".
- 9.4.9. When settling predictions, penalty points (point) awarded by the referee to one of the opponents (pairs) are taken into account.

- At the score (6:4), (3:2), the referee awarded 1 penalty point to the second tennis player and the score became (6:4), (3:3).
- In this case, it is considered that the 6-th game of the 2-th set was won by the second tennis player.
- In the case when any of the participants (pairs) is awarded a penalty point or points, it is considered that the tennis player (pair) who earned the penalty point receives the minimum number of game points that at the given moment is necessary to win the current game.
- The current score of the match is 1:0 (6:1), (3:1), and the score of the current game is 40:15, and the referee awards a penalty game (points) to the second tennis player, then the score of the second set becomes 3:2, the number of game points will be 8 (eight), and the score of the game – 40:W2, since the first tennis player already had 3 (three) points (15, 30, 40), and the second tennis player needs to score at least 4 (four) points to win the current game (30, 40, more, the winning point). In the case of awarding penalty points, when settling a prediction made on game points, the above-described principle applies.
- The team that wins three sets wins the match, and the team that is the first to score 25 points (in the 5-th final set – 15 points) and has an advantage over the opponent of at least 2 points wins the set.
- At a set score of 24:24, and in the final set 14:14, the set continues until in the current score of the set or the final set one of the teams reaches an advantage of 2 points over the opponent.
- The maximum score at which the set will be considered completed is not provided for; the set continues until one of the teams in the set reaches an advantage of 2 points.
- Matches may also be held in another format, where from 2 to 3 sets are played.
- 9.5.2. In volleyball during the Play-off, when games end with the same score in favor of different teams (for example, in the first game the score was 3:2 in favor of the 1-nd team, and in the return game – 2:3 in favor of the 2-th team), one additional set is played – the “Golden set” (in the “Golden set” the team that is the first to score 15 points wins), the winner of which advances to the next round.
- Results recorded in the “Golden set” are not taken into account when settling predictions on the outcomes of the return match.
- The team that wins 2 sets wins the match, and the team that is the first to score 21 point (in the 3-nd final set – 15 points) while having an advantage over the opponent of at least 2 points wins the set.
- If in a set the score is 20:20 (in the 3-st final set – 14:14), then the set (the 3-rd final set) continues until one of the teams reaches an advantage over the opponent of 2 points.
- 9.5.4. Predictions offered on the outcomes of volleyball and beach volleyball matches:

- 9.5.4.6. In the match by number of sets, the second team will win taking into account the handicap – “Handicap 2”.
- 9.5.4.7. Prediction on the total number of points scored by both teams in the match (set) – “Total over (under) the total value”.

- 9.5.6. A volleyball or beach volleyball match that was interrupted and was not continued or completed within 24 hours is considered not to have taken place.
- 9.5.7. A technical victory (defeat) established for any reason is not grounds for settling predictions.
- 9.6.1.2. Prediction that the participant will take places from 1-st to 3-nd inclusive.
- 9.6.1.3. Prediction that the participant will finish the race (will be classified).
- 9.6.1.4. Prediction that the participant will not finish the race (will not be classified).
- 9.6.1.6. Prediction that the first participant, based on the race results, will take a higher place than the second (designated in the line as “1”).
- 9.6.1.7. Prediction that the second participant, based on the race results, will take a higher place than the first (designated in the line as “2”).
- 9.6.3. If both racers retired, then the winner in the pair is considered to be the racer who completed more laps.
- When settling bets on the final result of baseball matches, results recorded in the additional post-match inning (innings) are also taken into account.
- 9.7.2. According to the Mercy Rule, a baseball match may end early if one of the teams gains a significant advantage over the opponent.
- In such cases, the match is considered to have taken place with the result recorded at the moment of stoppage, and all predictions are settled taking into account the result recorded at the moment the match was stopped.
- 9.7.4. In baseball matches, it is also possible to change the format of the game directly during the game (for example, instead of 9 innings, 7 innings will be played).
- 9.7.5.3. The first team will win (not lose) the match taking into account the handicap – “Handicap 1”.
- 9.7.5.4. The second team will win (not lose) the match taking into account the handicap – “Handicap 2”.
- 9.7.5.5. Prediction on the total number of points earned by the teams in the match – “Total over (under) the total value”.
- 9.7.5.6. Prediction on the total number of points earned by a team individually in the match – “Total over (under) the total value”.
- 9.7.5.7. Prediction that the total number of points earned by the teams in the match will be even (odd).

- 9.7.5.10. Prediction on the number of player statistics (batter, pitcher) in the match.
- 9.7.7. Predictions on the number of player statistics in a baseball match are considered valid if the players were declared and started their performance in the match (the exception is predictions made on the number of pitcher statistics, which are considered valid if the pitcher was declared and it was he who started the meeting, and did not participate in the match as a substitute).

- 9.7.8. A baseball match that was interrupted and within 24 hours was not continued from the interrupted inning or was not completed is considered to have taken place if at least 5 innings were played in full.
- If an interrupted match is replayed from the very beginning, predictions on the outcomes of the interrupted match are settled with the coefficient "1", except for predictions whose outcomes have already become unambiguously known.
- Predictions made on the outcomes "P1" and "P2" of baseball matches interrupted at a tied score and considered to have taken place are settled with the coefficient "1".
- 9.7.9. A technical win (loss) established for any reason is not a basis for settling predictions.
- 9.8.1. Snooker matches mainly consist of an odd number of frames (game rounds).
- The winner of the match is considered the player who has won the greatest number of frames.
- 9.8.2. In snooker matches, a "Stalemate situation" may occur when shots at the red balls do not contribute to the continuation of the frame.
- In the event of a "Stalemate situation" at the referee's suggestion (both players must simultaneously agree to the referee's suggestion to resume the frame), the players may replay the current frame (resume the frame from the score of 0:0).
- In such a case, predictions on the outcomes of the current frame are calculated based on the results recorded during the replayed frame.
- However, if after the frame continues, a player misses on three consecutive shots, victory in the frame is awarded to the opponent.
- In such a case, predictions on all outcomes of this frame, including the outcomes "П1" and "П2", are calculated with the coefficient "1".
- If a player who disagrees with the referee continues the game and pots balls, then the predictions made for this frame remain valid and are settled according to the final result.
- 9.8.3.3. The first player will win the match (frame) with the handicap – "Handicap 1".

- "Century break" is a situation in which any of the players in the match scores 100 (one hundred) or more points in a single visit and without misses.
- A point awarded to the opponent for a foul committed by the second player is not counted in the "Century break".

- 9.8.4. All predictions on frame outcomes are settled after the end of the frame.
- 9.8.5. All points awarded by the referee are taken into account when settling predictions made on match outcomes.
- In some cases, the referee may award victory to one of the players before the end of the given frame (for example, when the referee proposes an option for resolving the current situation, and the player does not agree with it and, by taking the opposite actions, loses).
- In such a case, the frame is considered to have taken place, and all outcomes are settled according to the registered result.
- 9.8.6. If for any reason one of the frames is not played, all bets on the outcomes of that frame are settled at odds «1», and bets on the remaining outcomes are settled based on the final result.

Bet types at Mel Bet
Single	- a single bet, which includes one outcome for one sports event. If the forecast turns out to be correct, the player receives a profit. The winnings amount is calculated by multiplying the bet amount by the odds in the bet slip.
Accumulator	- a combined sports bet may include several independent sports matches. An accumulator is formed from events across different disciplines. If at least one prediction in the accumulator does not win, the entire bet loses. When a player correctly predicts all the selected matches in the accumulator coupon, the winnings will be calculated as the product of the stake and the final odds in the coupon.
System	- system-type bets assume that the bet slip will include several separate accumulators, and singles may also be included. This type of transaction will not be considered losing if any accumulator is incorrectly predicted by the player.

- Upon expiry of any of the specified periods, the Bonus is annulled without any compensation. If the Bonus is used beyond the specified period, the forecast made using it shall be annulled without providing any compensation.

If a Promotion Participant makes a forecast that does not satisfy the Wagering conditions, such forecast is not taken into account when determining whether the Wagering conditions have been met.
- If a forecast made using the entire amount of the Bonus loses, the Bonus is annulled without any compensation.
- If a forecast loses, is settled at odds of 1 (one) or odds lower than those specified in the forecast requirements, is insured, or is recognized as invalid on any grounds provided for by the Gambling Rules, the forecast does not count.
- If the Promotion participant has performed all actions to wager the Bonus in accordance with the wagering rules, then, by decision of the gambling organizer, an amount equal to the amount of the initially credited Bonus (Wagered amount) may be credited to the Promotion participant's main account.
- Until the gambling organizer recognizes the forecast made by the Promotion participant using the Bonus as meeting the terms of the promotion, the Wagered amount cannot be transferred to their main account.
- The Wagered amount credited to the main account of the Promotion participant cannot be recognized by the gambling organizer as winnings in the meaning provided for by law and the Gambling Rules, and paid out as winnings until the Promotion participant places an interactive bet on the website of the gambling organizer in the meaning provided for by applicable law and the Gambling Rules in the amount of not less than 500 rubles.
- 4.3. If the Promotion participant has other active bonus amounts provided by the gambling organizer whose period of use has not expired, the prize received by such Promotion participant based on the results of this Promotion will be unavailable for use or wagering until the wagering conditions are fulfilled or the previously provided bonus amounts are annulled.
